Re presentation dt 25/3/24 from Mr. Sheikulla, Retired Jail Supt, requesting that the duty allce. drawn by him may be permitted to count for pension.

As Supt of the central Jail Mr. Sheikullah was in receipt of a duty allce. of Rs. 100. ~~The~~ Under Art. 24 - (4), M.S.R., duty allces. are not included in the term "emoluments" for calculating pensions, unless specially authorised by Govt. In British India, duty allce. counts for pension also.

4) The particular reasons which influenced Govt to allow duty allowances, in the case of the several officers, to count towards pension, are not on record, to apply to the present case. In the present case, the fact that the officer was an acting Asst Commissioner for a considerable number of years before being confirmed, and that he was enjoying a free house in addition to duty allowance, before retirement, may be taken into consideration. As an acting officer, he could not earn increments, and his pension is the less thereby. Deprived of the free house, and deprived of the duty allowance to count as pension, he will necessarily feel it rather hard to keep up to his old style. If there is nothing against him in service, he may perhaps be granted the concession asked for in the same way as his brother officers.

5) As this officer has acted as Asst Commissioner for a long period without earning any increment, as he has put in a long Lt & Substantive Service, he may perhaps be treated on the same

(12) The division of allowances into three classes: (1) Duty Allowances, (2) Deputation Duty Allowances, and, (3) Deputation Local Allowances, we copied from the Civil Service Regulations, but in doing so, we introduced an important change, viz., that of declaring that Duty Allowances and Deputation Duty Allowances would not reckon for pension, though under British Indian rules they did. Conditions have changed in British India and the Central and Provincial Governments have no longer Duty Allowances and Deputation Duty Allowances. They have adopted the system of having separate rates of pay for all appointments including appointments created for short periods and under such an arrangement no occasion arises for giving Duty Allowances or Deputation Duty Allowanees.

(13) The opposition to the grant of Duty Allowances is very strong on the part of members of the Representative Assembly and the Legislative Council. Mr. B. Narasinga Rau has given notice of a resolution suggesting the abandonment of the system of granting Duty Allowances. It may be given up but it will be necessary to fix separate rates of pay for all appointments for which no such rates now exist. The new arrangement is bound to result in extra cost and it will also create difficulties in the way of moving officers from one department to another another. The grant of Duty Allowances is a device for overcoming such difficulties but this is n o t appreciated by critics. In any case, I do n o t think we can follow the Government of India at once and abandon the system of giving Duty Allowances.

(12) If Duty Allowances should continue, the next question to be considered is whether the privilege of reckoning them for pension should not be conceded. As I have stated above, this privilege, such allowances had in British India, while the ~~xxxxxxxx~~ system of granting such allowances was in vogue there. We made, as a retrenchment measure, a deliberate departure from the British Indian rule with a view to keep down pension charges. In a few cases, however, we have permitted this kind of allowances to reckon for pension and what was allowed as a concession in two or three cases is now being claimed by all officers in receipt of Duty allowances. As observed by the Dewan, it is undesirable to limit the concession to individual cases and it is best to define the cases in which the concession will be allowed as a general rule.

(13) Of the three kinds of allowances referred to above, Deputation Local Allowance need not be considered here. It is not ~~reekne~~ reckonable for pension under the general principles of Pension Regulations.

Serial No.

Regulations. Duty Allowance proper is invairably for additional work ~~xxxx~~ or for holding a more onerous charge and I think it is but fair to include it in the ~~xx~~ calculation of pensions as a general rule. Deputation Duty Allowance is of a different kind as it is ordinarily allowed, for short periods, for the performance of duties for which there are no regular sanctioned appointments. Sometimes a Deputation Allowance is also sanctioned on account of a change of station which the duty involves. For these reasons, I do not think it is quite necessary that pension rights should be attached to Deputation Duty Allowances. Apart from this consideration, it is necessary to see that the addition to pension charges is minimised as far as possible; as it is, these charges are growing very rapidly and efforts are necessary to prevent their further growth as far as possible.

14) Altogether, I think it will be sufficient if Duty Allowances proper are permitted to reckon for pension as a general rule. In sanctioning new allowances of this kind or in dealing with application for the declaration as Duty Allowances, of allowances already drawn and classified as local, great care is necessary to keep the list of Duty Allowances as low as possible and thus reduce pension charges.

Sir,

I retired from Government service as Superintendent of the Bangalore Central Jail with effect from 4th March 1923 the date on which I attained 55 years of age. As Superintendent of the Bangalore Central Jail I was drawing my pay as Assistant Commissioner together with duty allowance of Rs 100/- per month.

In the calculation of my pension the duty allowance of Rs 100/- as Jail Superintendent has not been taken into account and I have been granted a pension of only Rs 142-13-0 per month after a long service of about 32 years.

As I learn that the benign Government of his Highness the Maharaja have been pleased to sanction the duty allowance of

(1) Mr. B. Seshigiri Rao,
Registrar Genl.& Rev.Secretariat
(2) Mr. Ananda Rao S. Sirsi,
President, Bangalore Municipality
(3) Mr. S. Srinivasaiengar,
Asst. Secretary to Government.
(4) Mr. S.V. Krishnasami Iyer, the marginally noted officers to count towards their pension I most respectfully and humbly pray that the same concession may be kindly extended to me in consideartion of my long and faithful service in various capacities (in the Revenue & Police Departments). I retired finally as Superintendent of the Bangalore Central Jail discharging the onerous duties of that office for a period of about 4 years. I pray the benign Government of His Highness the Maharaja of Mysore to consider favorably the case of an old and loyal servant of His Highness and grant grant me a pension taking into account the duty allowance of Rs 100/- per month as Superintendent of the Bangalore Central Jail.

I beg to remain
